Q7 What information or resources would be most helpful to you (provider) to help reduce the likelihood that an individual will recidivate or continue to have interactions with law enforcement? (free text)

Answered: 11 Skipped: 9

Response#1	Respondent skipped this question
Response#2	Job opportunity
Response#3	Not sure - our outpatient program serves children and youth and most clients are not engaging with the legal system
Response#4	Know when an occurrence happens so it can be discussed in treatment, better relationship with detention center to let provider know when clients are being release so we can touch base with person to get them back into treatment.
Response#5	clear communication of expectations for the client

Response#13	We need affordable, safe housing options for individuals returning to the community for jails or prisons.
Response#14	Transitional/affordable housing availability, mental health services offered in the jail are often not cooperative with the mental health services offered outside of the jail. Very often, prescribed meds are not available in the jail and our clients' mental health often deteriorates as a result of this. Our psychiatrist has made recommendations for our clients who are incarcerated and the mental health staff at the jail refuse to consider these though we may have been serving the client for a significant time prior to incarceration.
Response#15	Initiate treatment confirmation and discharge planning as early in the patient's detention as possible, exchange ROIs and contact names with the Treatment Center and ensure patient's medications were continued during incarceration.
